

KOTO

1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand the target audience and their preferences. Once a need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept that addresses this need.

2. The second step is to create a detailed business plan. This plan should outline the company's mission, vision, and goals, as well as the marketing and sales strategies that will be used to bring the product to market. It should also include a financial forecast and a timeline for development.

3. The third step is to secure funding. This can be done through a variety of methods, including venture capital, angel investors, and crowdfunding. Once funding is secured, the next step is to develop a prototype of the product.

4. The fourth step is to conduct a pilot test. This involves producing a small batch of the product and distributing it to a select group of customers. This allows the company to gather feedback and make any necessary adjustments before launching the product on a larger scale.

5. The final step is to launch the product. This involves creating a marketing campaign to generate awareness and interest in the product. Once the product is launched, the company should continue to monitor sales and customer feedback to ensure ongoing success.

COFFEE & TEA

Coffee

7

Sencha

7

Made from a tree called Camellia Sinensis.

Grown in direct sunlight, only the highest shoots are picked and then steamed (as opposed to pan fried in China).

A cold resistant, high yielding tree that produces a tea with notes of fresh grass, umami and subtle bitterness.

Genmaicha

7

A mixture of some late harvest Sencha and roasted rice. White rice is used as it is much more fragrant.

This tea balances the grassy green notes of the tea with toasted nutty notes of the rice.

Wakocha

7

A fermented Japanese black tea.

When brewed light, this tea brews a smooth, malty liquor with notes of ripe fruits, cinnamon and brown sugar. When brewed quite strong, a more commonly bitter and tannin-rich flavour profile develops, making it suitable for those who prefer to add milk to their black tea.

Hojicha

7

Originally created by a Japanese tea merchant when older green tea leaves were losing their flavour. This green tea's leaves are roasted at 200' degrees.

This process helps create flavours of coffee, chocolate, tobacco and subtle smoke. The roasting process reduces the amount of caffeine in the tea.

Mugicha

7

Mugicha is made from deep roasted whole-grain barley.

A great caffeine free alternative served cold in the summer and hot in the winter. A soft and sweet flavour profile with notes of coffee and smoke.

Matcha

6

This tea follows 800 years of tradition.

Matcha is grown exclusively in the shade. This helps contain more antioxidants and colour while they are also hand picked based on the youngest and most colourful leaves.

Steamed, destemmed and graded based on colour and aroma, before being ground with stone into a fine powder and stored in a cold room for quality control. Bright, vegetal, rich and slightly bitter.
